

Law and Ethics in Cybersecurity

Cybersecurity Ethics · Practice Test · 10 Questions

1. What is the primary function of law according to the text?

- A) To systematize moral principles
- B) To regulate behavior through rules and institutions
- C) To define right and wrong behavior
- D) To promote philosophical discussions

2. Which of the following best describes ethics, as defined in the text?

- A) A system of enforced rules
- B) A set of moral principles
- C) Regulations for computer usage
- D) Guidelines for data encryption

3. Which ethical framework suggests an action is good if the outcome is good?

- A) Deontological Ethics
- B) Teleological Ethics
- C) Duty Based Ethics
- D) Professional Conduct

4. What is a key characteristic of Deontological Ethics?

- A) Focus on the outcome of an action
- B) Focus on taking the right action, regardless of outcome
- C) Focus on maximizing overall happiness
- D) Focus on personal gain

5. Which of the following is NOT listed as part of the ACS Code of Professional Conduct?

- A) Primacy of Public Interest
- B) Enhancement of Quality of Life
- C) Honesty
- D) Profit Maximization

6. Which Australian law regulates the collection and use of personal information?

- A) Cybercrime Act 2001
- B) Spam Act 2003
- C) Australian Privacy Principles (APP)
- D) Telecommunications Act 1997

7. Which Australian law regulates unlawful hacking and computer fraud?

- A) Australian Privacy Principles (APP)
- B) Cybercrime Act 2001
- C) Spam Act 2003
- D) Telecommunications Act 1997

8. What is the main purpose of the Spam Act 2003?

- A) Regulating unlawful hacking
- B) Regulating commercial emails
- C) Protecting personal information
- D) Regulating telecommunications

9. What is the focus of the Telecommunications Act 1997?

- A) Regulating spam emails
- B) Regulating data theft
- C) Regulating interception of communication
- D) Regulating privacy of individuals

10. What is a policy, according to the text?

- A) A moral principle
- B) A set of enforced rules
- C) A set of decisions agreed upon by a group
- D) A type of ethical hacking