

Advanced Theories in International Relations

International Relations · Answer Key · 2 Questions

1. What structural factor does Kenneth Waltz's Neorealism identify as the primary determinant of international system dynamics?

- A) The nature of domestic political regimes.
- B) Prevailing international norms and values.
- C) The distribution of capabilities among great powers.
- D) The level of economic interdependence.

2. Which empirical claim is central to the Democratic Peace Theory?

- A) Democracies are inherently more peaceful than non-democracies.
- B) Democracies never fight wars against each other.
- C) Democracies are less prone to civil conflicts.
- D) Democracies always win wars against authoritarian states.