

The Nature and Function of Language

Philosophy · Answer Key · 20 Questions

---

1. According to Bergson, what is the primary function of language?

- A) To express individual thoughts
- B) To communicate for collective action
- C) To describe reality in detail
- D) To create artificial habits

2. Bergson compares speaking to which natural human ability?

- A) Breathing
- B) Seeing
- C) Walking
- D) Eating

3. Hannah Arendt distinguishes between intimate conversations and dialogue. What is the focus of intimate conversations?

- A) The common world
- B) Public events
- C) Individual feelings and experiences
- D) Political issues

4. According to Arendt, when does the world become human?

- A) When it is created by humans
- B) When it is perceived by an individual
- C) When it becomes the object of dialogue
- D) When it is described in books

5. Hegel argues that thought is impossible without what?

- A) Sensations
- B) Intuition
- C) Words
- D) Emotions

6. For Hegel, what happens to a thought that remains without words?

- A) It becomes perfectly clear
- B) It remains confused and vague
- C) It is immediately understood by others
- D) It is the highest form of thought

7. What does Wittgenstein mean by 'The limits of my language are the limits of my world'?

A) Language is only a tool for communication.

B) Our understanding and perception of reality are shaped by our linguistic abilities.

C) The number of words we know determines our physical world.

D) Only educated people can truly understand the world.

8. According to Heidegger, how does human existence relate to language?

A) Humans possess language as a tool.

B) Humans are language.

C) Language is an acquired skill.

D) Language is secondary to biological needs.

9. Heidegger suggests that internal thought is akin to what?

A) A silent debate

B) A visual image

C) A musical melody

D) A physical action

10. What does Jankélévitch refer to as 'indicible'?

A) Things that are difficult but possible to express

B) Things that are so profound they inspire endless discussion

C) Things that are impossible to express due to an obstacle

D) Things that can only be understood through music

11. Jankélévitch associates the 'indicible' with which concepts?

A) Love and beauty

B) Mystery and faith

C) Death and extreme trauma

D) Poetry and music

12. What does Jankélévitch describe as 'ineffable'?

A) Things that block speech

B) Things that are too painful to speak about

C) Things that one never finishes speaking about because there is so much to say

D) Things that are inherently silent

13. According to Jankélévitch, which art form is particularly suited to expressing the ineffable?

- A) Painting
- B) Sculpture
- C) Music
- D) Literature

14. Plato believed that words serve to:

- A) Create social bonds
- B) Express individual emotions
- C) Name things correctly and guide reason
- D) Facilitate practical action

15. Aristotle defined humans as 'political animals' endowed with what?

- A) Reason
- B) Tools
- C) Speech (logos)
- D) Emotions

16. Sartre suggests that speaking is an act that:

- A) Always perfectly conveys our feelings
- B) Can reveal the freedom of the subject and influence others
- C) Is primarily for internal reflection
- D) Is a learned social convention

17. In the context of the 'silence' text, what does Boileau's quote 'Ce qui se conçoit bien s'énonce clairement' imply about the 'ineffable'?

- A) That the ineffable is truly impossible to express.
- B) That silence is always a sign of a confused thought, not an impossibility of expression.
- C) That only poets can truly conceive of the ineffable.
- D) That clarity in expression is irrelevant to deep thought.

18. What is the core idea of Heidegger's philosophy regarding language?

- A) Language is a tool for understanding the world.
- B) Humans are defined by their ability to use language.
- C) Language is a biological necessity for survival.
- D) Language is a social construct that evolves over time.

19. According to Bergson, why does language simplify reality?

- A) Because humans are inherently simple beings.
- B) Because language is primarily a tool for action.
- C) Because reality itself is simple.
- D) Because words are inherently imprecise.

20. What is the main argument presented by Arendt regarding the role of dialogue?

- A) Dialogue is a form of entertainment.
- B) Dialogue is essential for political discourse.
- C) Dialogue humanizes the world and allows for shared understanding.
- D) Dialogue is a private activity for personal reflection.