

Canadian Astronaut Jeremy Hansen Retires from Active Duty, MARMOTSat Launched

Space Exploration · Practice Test · 7 Questions

1. What significant event occurred in Canadian space exploration this week involving astronaut Jeremy Hansen?

- A) He retired from the Canadian Space Agency to pursue new opportunities.
- B) He was assigned to the Artemis IV mission.
- C) He began training for a mission to Mars.
- D) He was promoted to lead the Canadian Space Agency.

2. What new Canadian satellite was launched into space this week?

- A) MARMOTSat
- B) RADARSAT-3
- C) Canadarm2
- D) Artemis Satellite

3. Which historic NASA mission did Canadian astronaut Jeremy Hansen participate in around the Moon?

- A) Artemis II
- B) Apollo 13
- C) Voyager 1
- D) New Horizons

4. What is MARMOTSat?

- A) A CubeSat developed by the University of Victoria.
- B) A new Canadian Space Agency satellite for Earth observation.
- C) A component of the Canadarm3 robotic system.
- D) A probe designed for deep space exploration.

5. As of this week, Jeremy Hansen is transitioning from his active astronaut role to pursue new professional opportunities. What will he continue to do?

- A) Serve as a reservist with the Royal Canadian Air Force.
- B) Lead the Canadian Space Agency's robotics division.
- C) Command the next Artemis mission.
- D) Work on the Lunar Gateway project.

6. Which Canadian university developed the MARMOTSat CubeSat that launched this week?

- A) University of Victoria
- B) University of Toronto
- C) McGill University
- D) University of British Columbia

7. The Canadian Space Agency announced significant funding for the replenishment of which satellite mission?

- A) RADARSAT Constellation Mission
- B) Canadarm2
- C) Canadarm3
- D) ISS robotics