

Exploring Aquaculture

Aquaculture · Practice Test · 5 Questions

1. What is aquaculture?

- A) The process of catching wild fish in the ocean.
- B) The farming of aquatic animals and plants in water environments.
- C) The study of ancient underwater cities.
- D) A type of fishing boat used for deep-sea exploration.

2. Why is aquaculture considered important for feeding people around the world?

- A) It helps to make drinking water cleaner.
- B) It provides a controlled and sustainable source of seafood and aquatic plants.
- C) It prevents ocean tides from getting too high.
- D) It teaches fish how to find their own food.

3. Which of these marine animals is commonly raised in aquaculture farms?

- A) Great White Shark
- B) Dolphin
- C) Salmon
- D) Blue Whale

4. Besides fish, what other type of aquatic animal is frequently farmed for human consumption?

- A) Jellyfish
- B) Sea turtles
- C) Oysters
- D) Starfish

5. What type of aquatic plant is often grown in aquaculture to be used in food and other products?

- A) Water lilies
- B) Cattails
- C) Seaweed
- D) Mangrove trees