

Demography Basics for Kids

Social Studies · Practice Test · 8 Questions

1. What does the study of 'demography' focus on?

- A) The study of animals in their habitats
- B) The study of how rocks are formed
- C) The study of human populations and their changes
- D) The study of different types of weather

2. What is a 'population' in the context of demography?

- A) A type of plant found in a forest
- B) A group of all the cars in a city
- C) A group of people living in a particular area
- D) A single person living alone

3. What does 'birth rate' measure?

- A) How many people move into a country
- B) How many animals are born in a zoo
- C) The number of babies born in a place over a period of time
- D) How quickly plants grow in a garden

4. What does 'death rate' tell us?

- A) The number of people who move away from a place
- B) The number of people who pass away in a place over a period of time
- C) The number of doctors working in a hospital
- D) The number of trees cut down in a forest

5. What is 'migration' in demography?

- A) The process of changing clothes
- B) People moving from one place to live in another
- C) The way birds fly south for winter
- D) A type of measurement for temperature

6. If a country's birth rate is higher than its death rate, what usually happens to its population?

- A) It stays the same size
- B) It shrinks over time
- C) It grows over time
- D) It becomes entirely empty

7. What does 'population density' describe?

- A) How heavy an object is
- B) How many people live in an area compared to its size
- C) How tall buildings are in a city
- D) How much water is in a river

8. Where do the majority of people in the world tend to live?

- A) In vast deserts
- B) On high mountaintops
- C) In cities and towns (urban areas)
- D) In the middle of large oceans